VERLINGUE

Historic & Country House Insurance

The Verlingue approach

At Verlingue, we specialise in protecting historic and listed properties. As members of the Historic Houses Association, we work closely with owners and custodians to help to preserve the heritage, livelihoods and long-term future of some of the UK's most treasured properties.

Every historic house is unique. That's why we take the time to understand your property, its history, architectural significance and how it is used today, before creating the right insurance solution.

Working in partnership with owners, estate managers and trustees, we design insurance programmes that balance preservation with day-to-day operation, whether your property is a private home, a working estate or open to visitors.

Our approach is built on 3 principles:

- Recognising heritage value alongside financial value
- Supporting long-term preservation
- Providing clarity and confidence in complex risk environments

Protecting historic properties through a risk managed approach

Verlingue's property loss control strategy focuses on identifying and reducing risks such as fire and water damage. Through practical, proportionate measures, we help protect historic buildings, strengthen resilience, and preserve them for the future.
